I was trained in a driving school. Without passing the exam 2 times in the traffic police, I realized that I need to apply systemic thinking and to this clergy. A week before the next surcharge, I allocated 3 important exam in the exam: preparation, setting up for the exam, passing the exam.

The first stage preparation takes time on Saturday to Friday. At this stage, I am planning, solving problems, the classification of errors, the study of the theory of identified errors.

Practice planning helps me to implement the Focus to-Do tracker, where I have an investment time on work on the passage of exam tests, listening to theory, error analysis, etc.

The practice of solving tasks is implemented using the site of traffic control panel. Rush, where I am making tickets. Reproduce an acceptance, as in reality, having the ability to make only 2 errors and limit by time in 20 minutes.

Next practice is a class classification. The meaning is to sort mistakes to look like. For example, errors associated with the intersection or first aid. Then after I classified errors, I re-listen to the theory for each type. Thus, the analysis of errors and the study of suitable theory allows you to point to working with spaces in knowledge to reduce the likelihood of its repetition. This practice makes it possible to reduce the time for training.

The second stage is setting up for the exam. To overcome this stage, the practice of sleep helps me, because it is important to be not tired to maximize your collendment at the time of the exam. Next practice is listening to music. This is a fairly common practice among athletes. Testing her, I realized that she helps me too.

Third stage passing the exam. I immediately use the following practices in the exam itself. The first practice is reading 2 times the question, even if the answer is clear from the middle of the question. No need to answer immediately, you need to apply slow reading and thoughtful reflection. Also decided that I want to test the practice of rest, most likely I will take a break for 20 seconds on every 5 question to give my eyes to rest. Another practice tracking time, do not need to rush, and it is better to go on schedule 1 question for 45 seconds. It remains 4 minutes on the buffer as a stock just in case.

Thus, with failure, I can consciously understand what stage was described incorrectly. And what practitioners need to be changed in the subsequent.
